About

SensoryScent produce a range of reliable, affordable scent delivery systems with over 400 reformulated fragrances, available in our catalogue.

Our scent specialists can produce bespoke scents to suit your needs and will work with you to produce the aroma that meets your requirements. We can cater for any project however large or small.

Complementing our range of off the shelf scents we also offer a wide variety of scent nebulising machines. From simple canister based scents for that quick and instant burst to a multi aroma vapourising scent machine for constant scent delivery- we have the solution for you. Typical installations for our scent systems include retail outlets and other visitor attractions such as theme parks and museums, stage and theatre. Education establishments such as schools, colleges and universities also use SensoryScent as well as healthcare providers including care homes and rehabilitation centres.

Our huge range of aromas will add that extra touch of realism to your environment. They can be used to stimulate memory and bring past experience to life or just add that extra special effect. Whether you are looking for the aroma of freshly baked bread, a spring meadow, a summer sea breeze or something more dramatic such as a battlefield or ancient historic village- we have a fragrance for you.

If you can't see what you're looking for in our catalogue of off the shelf scents please do not hesitate to contact us. Our scent specialists will be happy to discuss your requirements, provide a wealth of knowledge, excellent customer service and the best scent delivery solutions on the market.

"I would have no hesitation offering SensoryScent to others. The service provided was excellent. From the initial conversation Matt was enthusiastic, accommodating and on hand to offer specialist knowledge and advise to help us navigate what was, from the off, a remarkable complex project."

Jo Barratt, Vetyver

SensoryScent 200

SensoryScent 200 is a professional scent delivery machine which diffuses aromatic scents around the atmosphere using advanced nanotechnology. The scent delivery system features a diffuser which covers 100-200 cubic metres of space ensuring that the fragrance travels across a large area. SensoryScent 200 features an ultra-quiet design with the ability to adjust the concentration of aroma being distributed.

Scents spread evenly to produce a highly aromatic experience which remains long-lasting from each distribution of fragrance. The machine is CE, FCC and RoHS certified to ensure the products meet official regulations and each and every machine manufactured is quality controlled and assured. The product displays an aesthetically pleasing appearance producing a modern and contemporary accessory to any room.

Scent Machines

SensoryScent 300

SensoryScent 300 is another scent machine in our exclusive range constructed with steel to create a sleek yet durable finish to the product. The scent machine is easy-to-use allowing the operator to replace the refined oils rapidly. The contemporary design features a fragrance distributor ensuring that scents are dispersed fluently through the air with an even coverage of a distance up to 200-300 cubic metres.

Electrically powered using state-of-the-art nanotechnology, the low-noise machine has an abundance of great features. The machine allows you to adjust the concentration of aroma being distributed as well as setting the scent delivery system to turn on/off with a twenty four hour timer and an automatic control. The design allows the user to connect to HVAC (Heating, Ventilation and Air Conditioning) and it has temperature atomisation to maintain normal and comfortable surroundings. The diffused aromatic scents remain long-lasting from each distribution of fragrance.

Ensuring that the product meets official regulations SensoryScent 300 is CE, EMC, RoHS and FCC certified and every scent machine manufactured is quality controlled and assured to make sure the best possible quality is being maintained. The product has a professional, up-to-date appearance producing a modern and contemporary accessory to any room.

SensoryScent 600

The electrically powered SensoryScent 600 allows for a large oil capacity of 500ml. Its steel construction creates a robust and professional looking design. Contemporary nanotechnology is used in the production of the scent delivery system to focus on the oil particles creating a more concise and exquisite aromatic experience. After a scent has been diffused it can be instantly detected by the senses as it spreads evenly through the atmosphere spanning over 500-600 cubic metres of space. Scents remain prominent, pure and natural throughout each distribution of fragrance with no residues or harsh oils in the air. Professional in appearance the design is extremely easy to operate and sleek aluminium bottles containing refined oils can be changed quickly.

Adjusting the concentration of aroma is simple and with a quiet, low-noise design the system is barely audible. Bespoke features of the SensoryScent 600 include being able to set the machine to turn on/off with a twenty four hour timer and an automatic control as well as the ability to connect the machine to HVAC (Heating, Ventilation and Air Conditioning).

SensoryScent 600 is CE, EMC, RoHS and FCC certified to conform to official regulations with each scent machine monitored carefully with quality control and assurance. With a polished, high end appearance this scent delivery machine will fit in perfectly within any establishment.

SensoryScent 3000 is a scent machine using advanced nanotechnology to distribute scents which are stimulating to the senses. With a CFM (cubic feet per minute) of 3000, it shows just how powerful the scent distributor is in this scent delivery machine. The aromas can travel as far as 5000 cubic metres allowing the fragrances to reach a vast amount of space, ideal for industries such as theme parks, cinemas and theatres to produce a truly immersive and mesmerizing experience.

The system has stylish aesthetics which could be discretely placed in any area along with a virtually silent design so that the scents can appear without any knowledge of where they came from. The distribution of the aromas spread through the atmosphere evenly and can be identified throughout the time between each diffusion. The scent delivery system is easily operated with simple buttons to adjust the settings and refined oils can be rapidly replaced so valuable time is not wasted. If the concentration of oils needs to be altered this can be quickly achieved and with a 24 hour on/off timer the scents can be diffused at times which suit you. If it is easier to keep the SensoryScent 3000 on an automatic mode this is also an option. HVAC (Heating, Ventilation and Air Conditioning) can be connected up to the product to allow a flow of scent through these appliances.

Each of our scent machines are monitored and carefully checked to ensure quality assurance and certification that the product covers official regulations is shown by the CE, EMC, RoHS and FCC markings. The SensoryScent 3000 is one of the latest in our scent machines range and would be perfect for a variety of industries.

Scent & Aromas

Our scent specialists are passionate about making scents as realistic as possible. Education establishments such as schools, colleges and universities all use SensoryScent. Our huge range of aromas will add that extra touch of realism to your environment. They can be used to stimulate memory and bring past experience to life or just add that extra special effect. In education, teachers are now encouraging the use of scent as part of the curriculum in order to bring subjects like History and English to life.

Events in our history such as the blitz and the Second World War are now starting to move out of 'living memory'. The smell of burning metal, dust and rubble as part of the recollection of this period can ignite imagination and encourage pupils to write creatively and 'from experience'. Some healthcare providers including the NHS, care homes and rehabilitation centres are also using SensoryScent in a wide variety of ways. The NHS use our scents when training members of staff for example, in A&E departments in order to create realistic effects in roleplay, reconstructions and to prepare them for the real life scenarios they will eventually face.

Did you know that scent is your strongest link to memory? Dementia and Alzheimer's is an extremely isolating disease and SensoryScent uses a wide range of fragrances to bring people who suffer with this illness back to a place with which they can identify, recall memories and in turn, find a safe haven. Care homes which specialise in the treatment of patients with these conditions are benefitting greatly by using scent to help their patients to recall memories.

Depending on the stage of progression that the patient maybe at with their condition, it could also help them to remember to perform the daily functions that we ourselves take for granted, such as having a drink of water or sitting down to eat a meal.

SensoryScent run numerous scent promotions throughout the year, ideal for projects on a budget!

Scent & Aromas

Engage children by creating a more immersive experience within your lesson.

Take your pupils and students back in time to the Victorian era or the Second World War and encourage them to learn from experience rather than just what they might read in a text book. Coupled with a video or even simple slide shows adding a scent will create that added level of realism to engage learners.

SensoryScent can help bring the learning experience to life by adding an extra dimension to any topic. Particularly useful when trying to stimulate the imagination or when delivering abstract topics. The smell of burning and cordite is a great addition to a lesson for example the Blitz.
